

client The Academy of Contemporary Music (ACM)

project Academy Development Centre

background

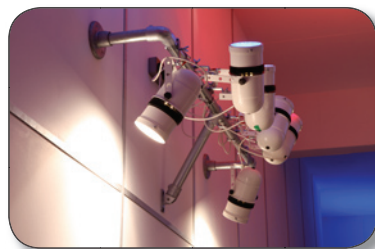

After working with space-pod for several years, The Academy of Contemporary Music (ACM) again turned to space-pod to redevelop and convert an old Yates wine bar into its new 'Artist Development Centre' in Guildford.

the scope of this challenging but impressive project was to:

- > Strip-out of old structure of the Yates Wine Bar.
- > Build acoustic sound-proof internal walls, floors and ceilings for practice rooms, studio spaces, teaching areas and recording studio.
- > Electrics, plumbing, decoration, air-conditioning and specialist lighting.
- > Signage and finishing touches.

client comment

"What would we do without space-pod? They always deliver a creative and cost effective solution that maximises our space and provides a quality environment for the musicians and technicians who use our facilities".

above: bespoke lighting detail

left: a detail shot of some of the acoustic sound-proofing that we constructed for the studio spaces

